Re our conversation on 26 February,
it was our error that the attached note from Mr. Colby got misplaced here. Would you please prepare a brief response to his questions and return to me ASAP. Many thanks.

Seminar Three

How did this package get to Mr. Colby ??

Mr. Coffey -

We've tried to trace the steps of this paper to discover why it was sent up to Mr. Colby and can only say that it went up there by mistake. Registry inadvertently took your handwritten note as indicating that you wished to send the paper forward. Executive Registry should have caught it and sent it back since it carried no transmittal but they obviously sent it on through to Mr. Colby.
I'm sorry.

Remarks:

- ① Splendid - Thanks
- ② The scope notes are a fine idea - Do they get to the speakers too?
- ③ Good work on State NSC etc.
Do we have a way of passing on any good substantive ideas coming out of these sessions which ought to be raised with our management

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support

SUBJECT : Status Report on Senior Seminar Three

1. There is attached the roster of the officers picked by the Training Selection Board to attend Senior Seminar Three plus those designated as alternates. Also attached is a set of draft schedules which reflect the present status of planning for Seminar Three; items which are not yet firm are shown in brackets. In view of our discussion at your briefing by the OTR Curriculum Council regarding the problem of defining the subject matter to be covered by guest speakers, I am also attaching copies of the Scope Notes which have been developed thus far. These notes, which will be interleaved with the details on the draft schedules in the final schedule, are somewhat bulky but are forwarded in view of your interest.

2. The major changes in Seminar Three include a week devoted to "New Methodologies of Interest to Intelligence." This week (Block III) concentrates on quantitative methodologies and tools such as ADP and their usefulness to intelligence analysis, collection and management of intelligence resources. Covert Action, which was treated separately in the first two runnings, has been integrated in Seminar Three into the two weeks (Block II) devoted to the Agency's intelligence activities. The subject matter of the concluding Block, "Management of Intelligence in a Period of Change," has been restructured to help Seminar members tie together all facets of the nine weeks. This Block includes several presentations based on the premise that the best form of management training comes from our senior managers themselves. Finally, in this running the individual presentations by Seminar members are being worked out with the participants by the Staff and scheduled in advance in an effort to further increase the value of these inputs which have been such a successful feature of the Senior Seminar.

3. In designing and developing Seminar Three, the Staff has been especially alert to Mr. Colby's suggestions on Seminar Two in his memorandum of March 1972. In addition to the above mentioned emphasis on new methodologies, there will be improved coverage of CIA-State relations with "A Day at the State Department"; more extensive coverage of the NSC and what is expected from CIA by that quarter (Hal Saunders, Andrew Marshall, Jeanne Davis and a briefing in the White House Situation Room); a closer look at the analytical and production functions: a presentation on the European Community by [redacted] an ONE 25X1 consultant; and increased use of films.

4. In sum, I believe you will find the program outlined in these schedules will be interesting and challenging to the Seminar participants and that their participation in Seminar Three will play a significant role in their development as senior officers.
